Scouting Asha Thomas

Thomas has been the No. 1 2015 prospect from the start

Bishop O'Dowd point guard Asha Thomas has a pair of state titles in her first two high school seasons, but has a different role this year after the Dragons graduated a start studded class. How is the No. 1 2015 prospect playing?

Talk about it in the norcalpreps Message Boards

Thomas has been the No. 1 prospect in the 2015 class since the initial class rankings and is continuing to cement that status. The 5-foot-5 point guard is widely recruited with reported suitors like Boise State, Nevada, UNLV, Pepperdine, Cal Poly, San Diego State, San Francisco, Kentucky, Oklahoma State, Texas Tech, Wake Forest, Boston College, Louisville, and Georgia Tech.

She is also being recruited by the entire Pac-12 outside of Stanford and UCLA.

Strengths: Thomas is a true point guard who sees the floor well and has a high basketball IQ. She sees plays developing ahead of time and puts passes in good places for teammates to score. She displays an extra burst to finish well inside and has a very good feel on her pull-up jumper. Thomas can break down her defender with an explosive crossover.

She is an active defender on the ball and in the passing lanes. She routinely starts the transition game off her defensive work.

Weaknesses: Thomas is a smaller point guard compared to other high major point guard recruits. She plays well against elite prep competition and there are plenty of cases of small point guard success, but it may hold her back from the national stage. Thomas is a solid shooter from three point range, but likely needs to be a knock down shooter to maximize her college production.

Final Analysis: The 5-star guard have the makings of a high major guard and should have a number of offers to choose from this summer. She is a solid floor leader and a winner whose game has progressed each year. She is a catalyst as the Dragons look to repeat as section, NorCal and state champions.
